

Kanine Korner

By Francis X. Lohmann

"Let sleeping dogs lie" is a well known axiom. It is usually used as advice not to stir up trouble and probably came about because when a sleeping dog is suddenly startled into wakefulness, he may snarl or snap. However, more often than not a dog that isn't permitted to get enough sleep simply becomes nervous, irritable, and generally out of sorts.

There are all kinds of methods suggested to keep dogs from barking and disturbing the sleep of members of the family or neighbors. But any consideration of ideas to keep the family or neighbors from disturbing the dog when he's trying to get some sleep is practically unknown.

Puppies, especially need lots of rest and sleep. They are like babies in that respect. This is the reason that very young puppies are often a disappointment to children. The youngsters, not understanding, expect the puppy to play most of the time. The puppy wants to hide away in his bed and sleep. When he doesn't get enough rest he becomes overtired and his entire system suffers, if not his disposition.

Dogs are experts at catnapping but they need regular rest and sleep as well. People who are experienced with dogs that work, for example, most times know that a dog needs sleep, as well as food and water, in order to restore energy. Pets can expend a lot of energy, too, so they also need lots of undisturbed sleep.

BROWSER BROWSINGS — A small black and tan puppy of mixed origin has arrived from Vietnam to help ease the ache of Mrs. Clinton C. George's heart. Her soldier-son, Mike George, adopted the cuddly canine fledgling soon after birth in Saigon and named her Frances. The son was killed in action Sept. 19.

Former Senator Barry Goldwater is an avid Bulldog fancier, baseball great Don Drysdale favors the Collie and Rudy Vallee goes for the Poodle.

There is definitely no truth to the old belief, that as long as a dog has a cool, moist nose he is in good health. Many times this is the case but don't depend on it. A mighty sick dog can have a cold nose. . . . It is most interesting to note that a tiny Yorkshire Terrier played the role of the "protector" in the Broadway stage play "The Enemies." How about that? . . . Marie Antoinette's beloved Papillon had a purple and gold velvet kennel. . . . Dogs do, unfortunately develop cases of cancer and in many different forms. If your beloved charge should develop a suspicious lump or swelling, a biopsy can be made by a pathologist to determine if the growth is malignant. It is entirely possible if the condition is discovered in time and treated at once, the dog may recover and enjoy good health for many years to come. . . . The American Kennel Club was founded in 1878 and is the governing body for all purebred dogdom in America. The AKKC headquarters are at 51 Madison Avenue, New York City.

BREED OF THE WEEK—Dalmatian . . . About the only thing certain about the origin of the Dalmatian is that he is a very old breed and has been known in Europe for many, many years. His name comes from the former Austrian province of Dalmatia although it is uncertain if this was his true homeland. Many authorities believe that the dog came from Italy, a theory which is given some standing by the fact that in England, at the time Oliver Cromwell held power, a picture of a Dalmatian symbolized the Church of Rome.

A good Dalmatian is one of the best looking of all dogs. He is a symmetrical animal, accurately balanced with no exaggerated or distorted features. His shiny spotted coat has no counterpart in the canine world.

Certainly, few breeds have greater versatility, for the Dalmatian has served creditably at almost every useful task a dog can perform. Many years ago he was used as a coach dog, to follow after and serve as a protector for horse-drawn carriages. He performed outstanding service as a war dog in World War II. He can be trained to point game, to retrieve and has been employed as a sheepherder, guard dog and even as a draft animal.

Approximately 2,000 Dalmatians a year are registered with the AKC, indicating that the Dal's intelligence, reliability and loyal, devoted disposition are deservedly valued by American dog owners. He is clean limbed. His eyes are bordered with black or liver. The Dalmatian's coat is thick, fine and glossy.

His poundage ranges from 35 to 50 and in height 19 to 23 inches. The Dalmatian Club of Southern California have done much to spread the name and fame of this fine breed of dog.

South Side

Who said that Christmas vacation was a holiday?

For any South High student involved with Operation Nepal, it certainly wasn't. This "international carnival of friendship," to be held March 15, 16, and 17, went into full swing during the vacation.

Work has begun on plans for a concert by the Jefferson Airplane (complete with airplane) and the Sunshine Company. Tickets are being sold at $4.50, $3.50, and $2.50 per seat for this event, March 16, in the football stadium.

This entire project was gradually devised after a visit last year by a teacher from Nepal. He studied the school system and South's student government. The purpose of his visit was to begin plans for a secondary school in Nepal. South has volunteered her help in this campaign with a set goal of $30,000 to $40,000.

An innovation took place at South in preparation for the upcoming elections. In place of the old method of being stamped with ultraviolet ink, prior registration has become a prerequisite for voting.

AT THE registration booth, the student's ID card is stamped. This must be presented in order to be admitted to both the election assembly and the voting station.

This system was originated for several reasons: first, to make school elections more like national ones; second, to improve behavior at the election assembly; third, to have only students who are interested cast their votes; and fourth, to eliminate much of the "double-voting."

VANESSA Redgrave and Richard Harris were the celebrities of the day for all Spartans who journeyed to "Camelot" today (the movie that is). Tickets were sold to members of the California Scholarship Federation (CSF) and to members of South's music department, then opened to the general student body. The price of the ticket also included transportation and the privilege of "legal grams in California.

Mrs. Eloise Shields and Paul Needels, psychologists for the Torrance Unified School District, are participating in a five-day study institute for school psychologists. "An Imposition in School Psychologists," being held in Los Angeles through Friday. The first of its kind, the study will deal with updating current changes in thinking in special education programs in California.
